

- What do I want to learn or understand better?

As next week is the last sprint I want to educate myself on how to finish a project in a good way and make our product presentable to a client. The way I will learn this will most probably be in a very agile way, i.e. by doing.

In last week's individual reflection I stated that I wanted to learn more about React. I feel that I have done that because of all the problems we had with this sprint's user stories. I had to read a lot of articles and look up a lot of things on the internet in order to understand the example code that was given in articles. Therefore I feel slightly more confident using React going into next week :)

- How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

Some things that are left to do is to connect the frontend and backend functionality of the website. Hence, we on the backend team will have to work together with the front end team. This will be an opportunity to teach them about how the backend works.

- What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

As during previous sprints I have participated in all of our meetings and been active during them.

- What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

This week we solved the problems that we had last week. It might not be the best solution but we prioritized getting it up and running as it is the second to last sprint. By completing these user stories we managed to meet one of our sprint goals.
